STRIKE OF TELEGRAPH OPERATORS BEGINS ON WEDNESDAY MORNING

Chicago, June 11.—The first general strike of telegraph operators in the United States since 1907 began at 7 a.m. today. Responding to the call of S. J. Konenkamp, international president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, Western Union and Postal operators throughout the entire nation quit their keys.

How extensive the strike is will not be known until more accurate reports of the number of men who have walked out begin to come in from the cities affected by the strike. At present writing it is impossible to state definitely how many men are out.

President Konenkamp of the telegraphers, estimates the number who will respond to the strike call at between 40,000 and 70,000. Officials of the telegraph companies declare the number will be much smaller, asserting that sufficient operators will remain at work to permit operation of the telegraph system with little interruption.

Although the strike was set for 7 o'clock this morning, the night forces of the Western Union and Postal companies at Omaha, Nebraska, quit their posts at midnight. Practically every employee of the night shift, both men and women, walked out, according to reports reaching here.

Besides the telegraph systems of the Western Union and Postal, the strike will include the cables, the union officials asserting they hope in this way to bring the trouble directly to the attention of President Wilson. The American Telegraph and Telephone company, union officials state, also will be affected.

Union members in Chicago, it has been decided, will adopt a plan of peaceful picketing.

Although no strike of railroad telegraphers has been called it is understood that officials of the Railway Operators' Union have instructed their men to refuse to handle commercial messages.

The walkout this morning is regarded by union officials as a test of strength. If sufficient operators join in the strike to seriously cripple the telegraph companies, the operators believe it will demonstrate the power of their organization and ultimately force recognition of their union, which is the principle issue of the controversy.

For the present, Press associations and broker operators are not involved in the strike, although President Konenkamp has intimated that broker men may be called out later. The International News Service, Universal Service and United Press associations, it is stated, are operating under contract with their operators and are not affected.

FIRST OFFICIAL COMMUNIQUE OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Paris, June 11.—Turkish peace delegates, who are enroute for France on the French warship, Democracy, will concede the allies right to occupy Armenia, Arabia and Thrace but will object to the Greek occupation of Smyrna, it was understood here today. The Ottoman envoys are reported to be preparing to shift the responsibility for Turkey's entrance into the war upon the young Turks.

(The young Turks constitute a political faction that overthrew the Sultan Abdul Hamid. One of the chief leaders was Enver Pasha, then Enver Bey, who was virtually dictator when the war broke out. He has since been characterized as a tool of Germany.)

CHICAGO OPERATORS OF POSTAL STRIKE

Chicago, June 11.—Practically the entire operating force of the Postal Telegraph company went on strike here this morning in accordance with the strike call issued by the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, according to reports shortly after 7 o'clock. At the Western Union offices the percentage of men going on strike was smaller than at the Postal, although enough operators walked out, it was reported to handicap seriously the operating department of the company.

One of them is in the hospital and two others were severely injured.

STRIKE BULLETINS GENERAL STRIKE IN WINNIPEG ENTERS SECOND MONTH WITH SERIOUS RIOT

Washington, June 11.—Practically all commercial telegraphers in Washington who are members of the union responded to the strike call today. At the Postal telegraph offices, which are strongly organized, practically the entire force walked out. Officials of the company declined to say however, how many were on strike.

Columbus, O., June 11.—"We employ 65 operators regularly and they are all on the job today," said A. A. Brown, manager of the Columbus Western Union office. "There will be no trouble here," he said.

Cleveland, O., June 11.—Reports conflicted today on the success of the telegraphers' strike here. Union leaders declared that fifty men had responded to the strike call and that their ranks would be augmented. Officials of three companies, Western Union, Postal and American Telegraph companies, were emphatic that not a man had failed to report for duty today.

New York, June 11.—Union telegraph operators left their keys at Western Union offices all over the New York as the nation wide wire strike went into effect today, and it was reported that the Postal system was being similarly affected.

Detroit, Mich., June 11.—In response to the general strike order issued to telegraphers by the Commercial Telegraphers' Union which became effective this morning, every operator employed by the Postal company in Detroit with the exception of two men and women also failed to report for work. Messengers employed by both commercial companies joined the strikers, making demands for more pay which was refused.

By questioning these gentlemen there will be no difficulty about establishing the fact of their possession of the peace treaty. The difficulty will come in showing their interest in it. But I mean to lay a foundation for developing that."

Directly following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Schultz motored to the Pennsylvania railroad station, and boarded a train for Columbus, where they will spend a few days. They expect to return to Xenia Saturday but will not go to housekeeping until autumn.

Mr. Schultz is a member of the force at the Xenia National Bank. He was recently discharged from the army after serving a year at Camp Taylor, and resumed his old position at the bank. He was a sergeant while in the army.

Mrs. Schultz is an attractive and popular girl, and the only child of Mrs. R. L. Manor. She has been employed at the Schell Jewelry Store.

The Hungarians agreed to cease hostilities on condition that the Czechs do likewise.

Spooner was 76 years of age at the time of his death. During his term at Washington he was known as the "consulting attorney of the senate," and was called by Wm. H. Taft "the greatest parliamentary debater of his day."

POPULAR YOUNG XENIA PEOPLE WED ON TUESDAY

J. Frederick Schultz and Miss Helen Margaret Manor, daughter of Mrs. R. L. Manor of this city, were married at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. George S. Macaulay officiating at his residence on South Detroit street.

The young couple planned to keep the time of their marriage a secret, but a few friends who happened along at the time were invited to witness the service. There were no other attendants. The bride wore a navy blue tailored suit, with white blouse, and a large black hat with touches of rose trimming. Her flowers were Kilnarney roses, worn in a corsage bouquet.

Directly following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Schultz motored to the Pennsylvania railroad station, and boarded a train for Columbus, where they will spend a few days. They expect to return to Xenia Saturday but will not go to housekeeping until autumn.

It was the first Christian burial in the church's cemetery, that of the wife of Rev. The Lebanon church included in its membership in the early days of Tennessee John Sevier, Governor Blount and Alexander Campbell, of Revolutionary fame.

"I am perfectly willing to give the results of my investigation."

GREAT MONEY MAGNATES CALLED TO TESTIFY IN PEACE TREATY PROBE

Washington, June 11.—The stage was all set for the appearance of at least three New York money magnates before the Senate foreign relations committee today when it was to resume its investigation of Senator Borah's charges that copies of the peace treaty had reached certain American financial and other private interests while the Senate was still denied access to the text of the bulky document.

J. P. Morgan and Henry P. Davison of the world famous banking house of J. P. Morgan and Company, 23 Wall Street, New York City, and Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank of New York City, were the ones called to testify before the committee.

Senator Root was the first witness called when the committee resumed its probe of treaty "leaks." He said Henry P. Davison, of the banking firm of J. P. Morgan and Company gave him the copy of the peace treaty.

Root declared that the treaty was "public property" in as much as Germany had given the document publicity.

He justified Davison's possession of it because of the New York banker's connection with the American Red Cross war activities. Davison was the second witness called.

As an international banker, interested in the co-ordination of American financial and industrial interests for the rehabilitation of war devastated Europe, Henry P. Davison, of J. P. Morgan and Company, secured a copy of the peace treaty at Paris on May 9 last from Thomas F. Lamont, another member of the banking house, Davison told the committee.

Davison said he was also interested in the text of the treaty as chairman of the board of governors of the League of Red Cross Societies, modeled after the League of Nations.

When he left Paris with the treaty he was under the impression that it was "public property" he said. When he discovered that it was not, upon his arrival at New York he locked his copy up and since then no one had seen it except Elihu Root because he knew Root, "as a recognized authority on international problems, was being consulted from Paris by those engaged in the peace negotiations."

He had not even shown it to J. P. Morgan or any other members of the Morgan banking house, he added.

Washington, June 11.—J. P. Morgan and Henry P. Davison, of the Morgan banking house, appeared today before the Senate foreign relations committee when it resumed its probe of Senator Borah's charges that copies of the peace treaty had fallen into the possession of certain American financial interests before the Senate had access to the voluminous document.

Elihu Root, former senator and secretary of state, entered the committee room almost immediately after Morgan and Davison arrived.

Root's appearance revived the report that it was he who recently placed a copy of the peace treaty in Senator Lodge's hands in New York City. It was stated that he had volunteered to testify before the committee.

Frank A. Vanderlip, former president of the National City Bank of New York City, showed up just before Senator Lodge, as chairman of the committee, opened the hearing.

Lodge began by reading a telegram from Jacob H. Schiff, of Kuhn, Loeb, and Company, in which he "begged to be excused" from appearing before the committee.

Schiff can be required to appear by the service on him of a duces tecum writ by the sergeant at arms of the Senate, it was said. The committee was expected to decide whether it would compel his attendance. Root was reported to be prepared to insist upon Schiff being made to testify.

Former Senator Root was the first witness called, admitted having a copy of the treaty.

"The publication of the purpose of the committee to inquire into the possession of copies of the draft treaty with Germany led me to feel that it was proper for me to come here and give the committee certain knowledge which I have," Root said. "I have a copy of the treaty and have had it for several weeks. It was sent to me by Mr. Henry P. Davison of the Red Cross," he continued.

"I did not compare the labor articles, but I found nothing. The only thing I compared with the summary was the little part which related to the terms with Germany."

"I want to say that the statement about bribery and corruption was made with reference to the copy of the treaty I had," interjected Senator Lodge.

"I consider the Red Cross has a legitimate interest," said Senator Hitchcock.

Senators Fall, Brandegee and Knox then attacked Senator Hitchcock, charging him with attempting to side step his charges of bribery.

"I was not connected with the Red Cross when I received the treaty," Root explained.

"Do you know of other copies of the treaty?" asked Senator Johnson.

"I do not," answered Root.

"Do you think any damage has been done by the printing of the treaty in the congressional record?" asked Senator Brandegee.

"No," answered Root.

Root said he did not believe it was incumbent upon the president to send the treaty to the Senate.

Henry P. Davison, the next witness, said the copy of the treaty brought to this country has never been read by any man in this country "except Senator Root and myself."

PADEREWSKI—Premier of Poland AND MASTER PIANIST USES NUXATED IRON

To Obtain Renewed Energy, Power and Endurance

Dr. Kenneth K. MacAlpine, for 16 Years Adjunct Professor New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital, Says That In His Opinion Nuxated Iron Is

The Most Valuable Tonic, Strength and Blood Builder Any Physician Can Prescribe.

Ignace Jan Paderewski, one of the greatest musical geniuses of the age, at a time when his untiring work for Poland overtaxed his strength and impaired his health had recourse to Nuxated iron to help rebuild his wasted forces and restore his old-time health and strength.

"With the tremendous strain imposed by over two years of strenuous work in the cause of his fatherland, of which he is the foremost figure today, it is easily understood why Paderewski sought the sustaining tonic benefit of Nuxated Iron," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of the House of Commons, London, England, New York, and the Westchester County Hospital. "Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man physically weak, but it utterly robs him of energy, more than the loss of strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. Thousands of men and women are impairing their constitutions, laying themselves open to illness and literally losing their grip on health simply because the blood is running so terribly strong, owing largely to iron. Iron is absolutely essential to enable your blood to transform the food you eat into muscular tissue and brain. Without iron there is no strength, vitality and endurance to overcome obstacles or withstand severe strain. To help the strong sturdy men of blood and iron there is nothing better than organic iron—Nuxated Iron."

Mr. Paderewski says: "I am using Nuxated Iron very frequently and consider it as an excellent tonic."

A prominent New York Surgeon and former Adjunct Professor of the New York Post Graduate Medical School and Hospital, says that Nuxated Iron is a great tonic.

TEACHERS EMPLOYED FOR NEXT SCHOOL YEAR IN XENIA SCHOOLS

For the school year 1918-1919 the Xenia City Board of Education employed the superintendent, 62 teachers, business manager, office stenographer and six janitors—seventy-one persons in all. These seventy-one employees collectively received approximately $52,000 during the school year just closed. This means the average salary per person per month taken on a twelve months' basis is less than $63.

Why are Boards of Education finding it increasingly difficult to find teachers to man the schools? The $63 answer. The schools cost $71,000 for 1918-19 distributed as follows:

Teachers $47,519.70
Janitors 4,080.00
Coal 4,031.10
Interest and sinking 9,436.54
All other purposes 5,834.01

This last item includes text books, supplies, repairs, freight and drayage, insurance, etc. Due to a low tax rate for schools the board can not follow a "pay as you go" policy. Citizens should interest themselves in the matter of financing the schools.

For 1919-20 the Board will have in its employ 74 persons. The new schedule of wages will raise the $63 per month, per person to about $69 per person per month figured on a 12 months basis. Is this sum adequate in these times of high price levels? Let the reader judge.

The following is the list of teachers employed for the next school year:

They were Amos Compton, of New Burlington, Leon Sinnard of Urbana, Robert Stanley of near Wilmington, James Soward and James Hollingshead of Xenia and Robert Zeigler. Burial was made in Spring Valley cemetery.

HAVE GOOD LIGHT.

If you work at night be sure that you have a good light. Are lights, because of their glaring rays, are exceedingly injurious. A shaded light is the best substitute at night for diffused daylight. The electric bulbs should either have a dome or a dark paper shade. A gas light composed of mantle and bulb produces a good, diffused light and when placed high enough near the ceiling does not injure the eyes.

FIVE HUNDRED HEAR CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE IN XENIA

Five hundred people, many of whom came from surrounding cities, had the pleasure Tuesday evening of hearing Dr. John M. Tutt, C. S. B., of Kansas City, speak at the Xenia opera house on the subject of Christian Science.

Mr. R. A. Tull, of this city, introduced the speaker, saying "On page one of the Christian Science text book, Science and Health with the scriptures we read 'The prayer that reforms the sinner and heals the sick is an absolute faith that all things are possible to God—a spiritual understanding of him an unselfish love.' One who was able to write such a wonderful truth as that surely must have had a very clear understanding of the truth about God. So we have asked Dr. Tutt to meet with us tonight and it gives me great joy to introduce him."

In part Dr. Tutt spoke as follows:

If each individual in this audience were asked to give a reason for his presence here, no doubt it would be possible to classify the replies under two great heads—religion and medicine. These may be said to be the paramount human interests, for second only to a future salvation, mankind is concerned in the preservation of his body. Christian Science has amalgamated these interests so that rightly viewed, religion and medicine become one; and since Christian Science, in its saving and healing grace, is applicable to all manner of discords, physical, mental and moral, may it be termed the universal panacea.

It is significant that the earliest systems of religious philosophy made no separation between religion and medicine. The pagan gods of medicine were called upon to heal sickness, just as the gods of war were appealed to for victory, and the gods of peace for plenty. Medicine began to separate from religion as medicine became more material and religion grew less so. Material medicine had so developed into a system apart from religion, that when Jesus began his restorative ministry, and healed the sick by pure spiritual power, he was termed both by the theologians and the matter physicians a miracle worker, so unheard of had it become to invoke the healing power of God.

The only reason mankind has not turned to God, the great physician, in the time of physical distress, is because of the material bias of its education. Mankind has been taught to look to God for salvation from sin, but to rely upon matter for the cure of matter and its dire beliefs. Because of the seeming increasing power of false material education, mankind has been unable to grasp the simplicity and adequacy of the spiritual laws of God applied to the discords of the flesh.

Jesus knew these laws, employed them, and laid upon all Christians the injunction to imitate his healing works.

It may be argued that Jesus conferred the power to heal upon his contemporary disciples only. Yet he said unequivocally: "These signs shall follow them that believe." But if the contention be true, how did Paul, who was not Jesus' immediate disciple, acquire the art of Christian healing?

It must be admitted that Paul used none but spiritual power in his restorative ministry.

The Master, alluding to his divine Principle, the healing and saving Christ, said: "Lo! I am with you always." This Christ was available to Paul and he rose in spiritual consciousness to the realization of it.

The power of God to heal and to save, so wondrously present with Jesus, and with the early Christians for three hundred years, is available to all today, and when understood and employed, in Jesus' way, becomes the witness of "Christ in you, the hope of glory."

PRAYER.

The modus operandi by which Christian Science fulfills its restorative ministry is prayer.

By prayer sickness is healed, sin destroyed and harmony restored.

By prayer ignorance is replaced with understanding.

By prayer we are made new in God and enter into the heritage of his son.

Prayer is that process by which false beliefs are destroyed and right concepts restored.

To know the truth is to be free.

Therefore the Christian Scientist when he prays, does not ask God for any material thing.

He seeks to apprehend what is already existent and being.

He asks only for guidance for wisdom, for true knowledge.

So the man prayed for an understanding heart.

So Hagar athirst in the desert, fearing for the life of her child, prayed the prayer with which she implored the Lord to give her the well of water at hand.

Such prayer has never failed, for it is the prayer of spiritual sense, that "conscious, constant, capacity to understand God," and the spiritual realm.

Christ Jesus, in teaching how to pray, said: "Whatsoever things ye desire when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them."

True prayer then is comprised of asking and believing. It is both desire and realization—desire to know the will of God, desire to express that will in daily life, desire to overcome all that is contrary to good; realize the unique character of error and the presence of God and his manifestation.

Prayer in Christian Science includes the answer, and if this were not so, the loving Father would stand convicted of causing his children to suffer.

The riches of His kingdom are available to all who claim their divine heritage.

A little girl I know furnished an adequate illustration of the restorative power of Christian Science when she freed herself from the bondage of sickness thus:

"If God did not make it, how could I be?"

Very little process entered into her argument against the false sense that she was mortal.

She turned to her own self-concept.

She sought refuge directly in the Truth of being and knew that she and her omnipotent Father were one.

She did not do this on the sickness, and did not offer the false defense that she was still mortal, she did not cling to her own self-concept of infirmity nor self-condemnation.

Her thoughts turned naturally to God, divine Love, her only source of relief, naturally as the rays turn to the sun, and she was free!

Do you wonder that Jesus declared the kingdom of God open only to the children of men?

The highest object of prayer and its ultimate goal is the attainment of the consciousness of God's incomparability from his Maker—God.

Ceaseless prayer is the demand of Scripture, and this is possible only as constant right desire and effort to be in accordance with like.

To be present with God. Of this supreme concept of answered prayer, Mrs. Eddy has written:

"O! Thou hast heard my prayer;

"I am blest;

"Thou here, and everywhere."

(Misc. Writings, page 333.)

In the presence of God, there is no unsatisfied desire.

DR. PAUL ROTHERMEL DIES OF PNEUMONIA TUESDAY EVENING

Dr. Paul Rothermel, well-known and popular young veterinarian, died at his home in the Whittington apartments, 115 North Detroit street at 8:55 o'clock Tuesday evening. He had been ill less than a week of pneumonia but his condition had been serious since the start of the disease.

Dr. Rothermel was on a fishing trip near Hamilton, early last week and contracted the disease immediately following his return home. Monday night it was thought that he was slightly better but his heart was gradually growing weaker and he passed away quietly Tuesday evening.

WHY THE COWS DON'T LIKE THE "DAYLIGHT SAVING"
LAW.

Neither by law, or in any other way, can you please all the people all the time. Now there is the so-called "Daylight Saving" law. When first inaugurated it was loudly approved, not by everybody, oh no, but by those whom it suited, mostly town folks. But already many cities have gone back on it, and changed their clocks to sun time, and there have been movements in Congress to consider the repeal of the law.

The latest objection to the law that we have heard of is that the cows don't like it. At first thought of this you may smile, but there is nearly always two sides to every question and just wait until you hear the cow's side to this one.

There is something more in life than accommodating humanity; we must take into consideration also the feelings of animal life. We cannot govern the habits of animal life. They learned with the beginning of time to lie down and sleep when darkness came on and to arise with the dawn. To change their habits is an impossibility, so that if we disturb an animal one hour before its rest is completed in the morning we have taken away one hour of that animal's night's rest every night.

A dairy farm owner talking on this subject, says that cows in order to give the most efficient service in the dairy business, must be milked at exact periods of twelve hours each. If you milk the cow in the morning at 4:30 you must milk her in the afternoon at 4:30; if milked in the morning at 5 she must be milked in the afternoon at 5, etc. To disturb a cow in the morning before her rest is completed means a loss of milk, and to disturb her again in the afternoon means a greater loss.

Under the daylight saving law the cow must be disturbed every morning and every afternoon. It makes no difference what you do with the clock, the cow goes to bed again with the sun after the cool of the evening has come on. She does not go to bed with the clock, and if she is disturbed an hour earlier every morning an hour is taken from her night's rest. This does not happen just one day, because the cow does not get used to this sort of regime. No matter what time she gets up in the morning she goes to bed at night at the same hour.

The effect produced upon the cow in relation to her rest is produced upon all other animal life. All animals rise in the morning and go to bed at night by sun time, and every horse that works on the farm under the new law must be disturbed before his rest is over every solitary morning.

So, the dairy farmer says those who are crying so strongly for the daylight saving law should be compelled to go out on the farm and live for a week and follow the farmer around in his daily tasks. They would soon find out the terrible injustice that is done the farmer.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS
SHOULD NOT BE A PARTY ISSUE.

"If the league of nations becomes a reality it will be because the plain people want it," said William Howard Taft, formerly President of the United States, speaking at commencement exercises at Bryn Mawr College.

The occasion was unique in that Mr. Taft spoke under the auspices of an institution of which his daughter was the head. Miss Taft had just been appointed to take charge of the college during the absence of Dr. M. Carey Thomas, who has been granted a leave to make a tour of the world.

"This is not a partisan question. We should be for or against the league without respect as to whether we are Republicans or Democrats. We should be for or against the league without regard to whether we think it will bring credit to our party or credit to any man. Personal or partisan considerations of this kind are reasons which should have no influence with us in determining an issue so fateful in the world's history and so likely to affect the welfare of the future people of the United States and of all mankind. When, therefore, you come to consider the question whether you are in favor of the treaty or not you should search your hearts and souls and your consciences to see whether you are approaching it in the proper patriotic and humane spirit or whether you are against it because Mr. Wilson is for it and you fear that he may gain

Pancakes Muscle Makers.

It is a common mistake to suppose that to get the necessary strength to do hard manual labor a heavy meat diet is necessary. This is far from correct.

Muscular labor does not materially affect the demand for minerals and proteins, but rather for starches, fats, and sugars. Therefore any additional wastage through muscular effort could be much better repaired by pancakes and syrup than by roast beef, for as much moisture and heat are wasted as tissue, so it is fuel that is required.—Popular Science Monthly.

CHAPTER CXI

I don't think I ever was so glad to see anyone as I was to see Mr. Frederick that morning. Yet with the gladness was a guilty feeling also. I knew this straightforward, blunt man cared for me. And I was depending upon him to help Neil, the man I loved. That he was my husband was the redeeming feature of course, yet I couldn't help but wonder if Frederick would feel that I was using him because I knew of his admiration for me, and if he would resent it?

"I am glad you sent for me," were his first words as he shook hands with Neil after greeting me.

"I didn't!" Neil returned in a hopeless voice. "It was Bab's doing."

"So long as I am here what difference does it make who sent for me. I see you know the papers are busy. I also have been busy, and so has Mrs. Orton."

"Mrs. Orton!" I exclaimed, wondering what she had to do with it now. "Yes, she's a brick. Give me a keen witted woman when things are snarled. They are twice as quick as a man in finding a way out."

Had she found a way out? I prayed that she had.

It seemed that Frederick knew all that Neil had told me. Of his careless acceptance of claims of which he knew nothing, and upon which he had prepared glittering prospectus and sent them out to the credulous and reaping immense returns because of promises he made, promises which he neither knew—or seemed to care—if he could fulfill.

"Scott will take all he put up with you—and interest at 6 per cent. I had to put the screws on. But I happened to know something of his past life which couldn't stand the sunlight. I hated to use it. He's got a nice wife and kids. But there was no other way. That settles Scott."

"I never can pay him," Neil broke in. But Frederick paid no attention.

"Mrs. Orton has suggested that you immediately put an advertisement in the papers that all who have invested with you will be treated the same way. Money back and interest. It is your only chance. They can't jail you unless someone prosecutes you. It is hard to crawl, but your youth, and your ambition will have to be pleaded, and perhaps we can get them all satisfied."

"But man! I couldn't repay one-tenth of what I—have had from them."

"No, I am well aware of that. But you can do what you can. Your friends will do the rest—lend you the money. I don't know what pleases Blanche Orton used but Tearle and Connor will wait. As they are the only men who have advanced large amounts—besides Scott whom I will manage—I think you may be able to care for the rest. But—wait!" as Neil straightened up, a gleam of hope upon his white face. "There's a string to the bow, as there's always is. You have got to give me your word to quit the business and to go straight."

"God man! don't you know how I hate it! But I couldn't get out once I was in. So I kept getting in further, deeper and deeper. And I can't even plead, as so many do that I did it to make money for my wife and child. I didn't! I did it for myself, to satisfy my inordinate ambition to be called the youngest great financier in the country. Oh, I have no excuse, none! As for giving you my word I'll quit. I have been made to quit, haven't I? As for going straight I'd be a brute if I wouldn't after the way Bab has talked and she knows just how bad it all is now. When a man's wife tells him she still loves and has faith in him, there's nothing to do but try again, is there? If she had gone back on me, why then?" There was no mistaking his meaning. He would not have lived.

"Your wife is a brick! I have never doubted her attitude for a moment. She is worth trying again for, Forbes. She and—the boy. But we must get to work. Give me power of attorney. I'll go to your office, get all the papers we need, the lists of your customers you say you have kept. Then we'll propose settlement to every mother's son of them, daughter's too. You get out at my hotel, go up to my room and stay there until we get this thing settled. Tell no one where your husband has gone. Refer everything to me," he said to me.

"But can't you stay here just as well?" I hated to be left.

"No. The reporters wouldn't give us a minute's peace. If they come be as ignorant as you can. Don't know a thing only that I am looking after your husband's affairs. Not a single thing. He has gone away, will be back in a few days. That's all they need to know."

"I'll do my best," but as I said it I knew I should hate to meet anyone who questioned me.

Dietetic Habits.

Some people seem to think that a vegetarian is a curiosity. A rough calculation shows that the population of the world, now estimated approximately at 1,600,000,000, is said to be divided as to dietary habits about as follows: Strict vegetarians, 250,000,000; practically vegetarians, but eating a little fish or flesh, 450,000,000; eating meat about once a week (on high days and holidays), 500,000,000; eating meat daily and sometimes more than once a day, 400,000,000.

of Bad Blood.

Don't close your eyes to the warning which nature gives, when unsightly pimples appear on your face and other parts of the body.

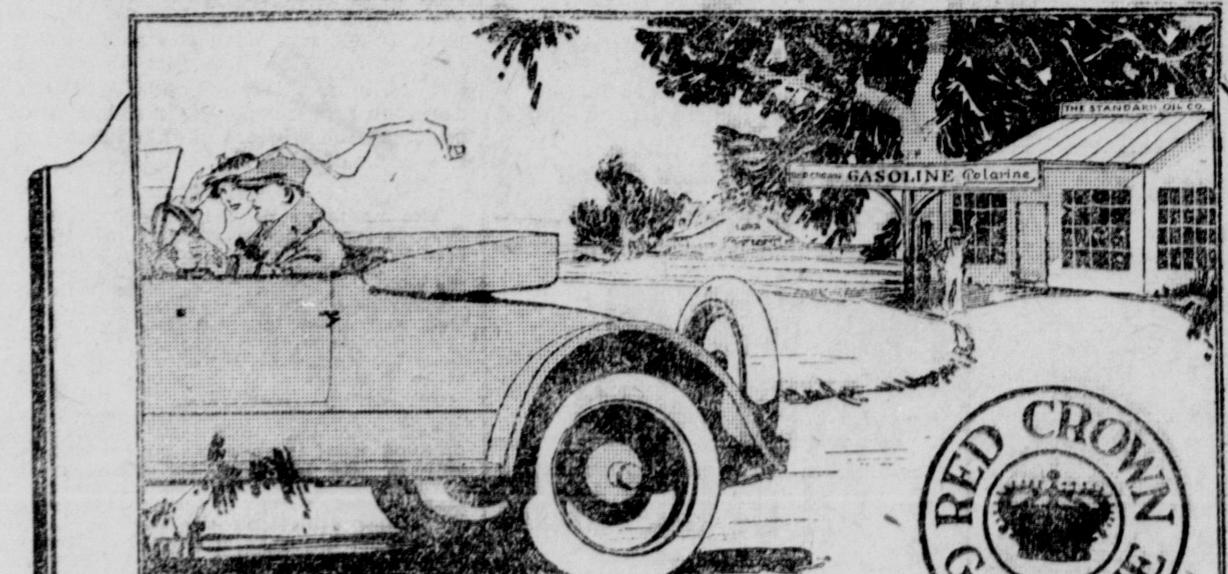

Not only are these pimples and splotches disfiguring, but they lead to serious skin diseases that spread and cause the most discomforting irritation and pain. Sometimes they foretell Eczema, boils, blisters, scaly eruptions and other annoyances that burn like flames of fire, and make you feel that your skin is ablaze.

When these symptoms appear on any part of the body, take prompt steps to rid the blood of these disorders. And the one remedy which has no equal as a purifier is S. S. S., the purely vegetable blood medicine, which has been on the market for more than fifty years. It is sold by druggists everywhere.

If you are afflicted with any form of skin disease, do not expect to be cured by lotions, ointments, salves and other local remedies, as they can not possibly reach the source of the trouble, which is in the blood. Home grown strawberries have made their appearance in the local markets, and are retailing at 35 cents a quart, the price which the foreign product commanded all spring.

Dealers promise that the price will be lower when the crop becomes more plentiful. The home grown berries are of good quality and luscious, but the crop was so seriously damaged by the May frosts that it will not be large. Rains of the last several days followed by the sunshine have caused the berries to ripen rapidly.

Kelly Mendenhall, who lives south of the city, brought to the office of the Gazette and Republican Tuesday a quart of wonderful berries, each one more than a mouthful. It took only 29 of the berries to make a full quart of fruit.

famous offer to go into vaudeville for a few weeks to go straight home to marry the girl who had been waiting for him. She was Miss Grace Williams. York is second elder of the Church of Christ and Christian Union at Pall Mall, his home town in the mountains, and was an "objector" to strife when the war broke out. There wasn't much of a furor when Alvin arrived home. His mother shook hands with him and said, "Howdy, Alvin, glad to see you home again." Then she proceeded to "fix things" for Alvin to "wash up." One of the photos above shows the start of the ablutions with his sister gazing spell-bound at her hero.

Without the attachment of any invention to the car, the owner has a very sly means of protection against thievery. It is so simple that all may wonder they never thought of it. All that needs to be done is to interchange two wires running to the magneto. The car is left intact and complete yet will never run unless the wires are properly connected again.

FIFTY FIVE GRADUATES OF XENIA HIGH SCHOOL RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

The sixtieth annual commencement of the Central High School was held in the First Methodist church Tuesday evening. At the appointed hour of eight the 55 members of the graduating class marched to their places on the platform while "America, the Beautiful" was rendered by the organist, Miss Ruth Tarbox. Rev. Charles Proudfit, of the Second U. P. church, gave the invocation. The male quartette, Robt. Hurley, Heber Tullis, Alfred Casad and Earl Hartsock, sang "The Praise of Our 'Old High'" with a great deal of enthusiasm and made the right background for the speeches which followed.

Earl Hartsock, president of the class of 1919, spoke on "What is Americanism?" He traced the progress of America's military and industrial place among nations in the last two years. In June 1918 there were 558,000 enlisted men, 67 cantonments, 12 officer's training schools, 16 aviation fields and two million men in Uncle Sam's service on this side, there being over two million in France. Everything was at its height and it showed the world that America could do what was said couldn't be done. Why is it? Americanism. The speaker said, "Our country has a history. Big problems have been solved and America has arrived at this great age through struggle and work."

Alfred Arnold took as his subject "Equal Rights." Our privileges we enjoy today began with the Bill of Rights, and ancient issues were nearly settled in 1914, when the Rights of Nations arose. Our ancestors fought for individual rights, but we fought for Nation's Rights. It is to the glory of America that she poured her millions into the world conflict without any hope of personal gain. As a result American ideals are forming into realities and it has been brought about by the aid of former generations who have been keenly interested in the future welfare of humanity.

Mary Willett spoke on "Respect for Womanhood." She covered the subject in an unusual way and with her personality carried her message across. Woman has been protesting through the ages for her privileges and her ideals. But not till within the last two years has man recognized woman as his equal, mentally, morally and physically. Woman did every conceivable kind of work, too numerous to mention, and she was looked upon as man's equal. But since the war is over what is woman's place in the future? Woman Suffrage is an issue that will succeed. With this and the place a woman holds in the home, her ideals will influence the whole world.

Frank Short talked on "American Government." He traced the progress of civilization from the Magna Charta in 1215, to the Declaration of Independence in 1776. The next great bound in the powers of the people came in Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address" when a government of the people, by the people and for the people was realized. Anglo-Saxon civilization has been improving for seven centuries and it is still in the embryo.

Lois Gartrell and Alfred Casad sang a beautiful Farewell song which brought out the rich qualities of both of their voices.

Louise Clark in her striking way

told the "Fallacies of the Bolshevik Doctrine." Bolshevism means everything that is the opposite of American. She drew some fine parallels. Americanism means advancement and it shall be the dominant power of the world. U. S. citizens must be for one country and one flag. America has no room for but one kind of loyalty. Her closing sentence was a question "Are you an American or a Bolshevik?"

Katherine Hollencamp in her usual attractive way presented the subject "The Aristocracy of Service." When leaving high school the thrill and enthusiasm to do something worth while is written on every countenance. The motto of the public school is, "We enter to learn and leave to serve." We are out to succeed. Never before has the word service such a full meaning as today. And the class of 1919 is looking forth on this new era with an expectant hope of rendering some service to humanity.

Alfred Casad, Lois Gartrell, Celia Moore and Earl Hartsock sang "The Soul of You."

Miss Elwell in a charming manner presented the class of 1919 and with her wonderful personality carried a heartfelt message to the parents of the graduates. Through twelve years of free public education the teachers have striven to bring out the best; and now these 55 young people are being returned to their homes better young people with high ideals and a promising future.

Principal M. R. Simpson presented the diplomas to the class and gave a short talk explaining different vocational courses offered in X. H. S.

The class for the last time with a great burst of enthusiasm sang its class song and an aeroplane was floated from the balcony to the center of the platform.

The church was crowded, probably due to the fact that this is the largest class ever graduated from the portals of X. H. S. The thirty girls wore simple white frocks and carried red carnations, making a very pretty effect.
